Hundertwasser Japanese Woodblock Prints:

In the 1960s, Hundertwasser was the first European painter whose works were cut and printed by Japanese masters. In contrast to the heavy and often coarse woodblock prints in European art, the Japanese woodblock prints, rich in tradition, seemed to him to be distinctly light and floating, as if they were painted watercolours.

The Japanese woodblock printmakers had to face the challenge of transferring the richness of the colour of Hundertwasser's works and the large number of woodblock plates required.

Japanese woodblock print in 10 colours. Kyoto, 1999. Edition: 200 copies, signed and numbered. Catalogue raisonné 953A. Unframed. Motif size 48 x 29 cm. Sheet size 57.5 x 42.5 cm.
